

EI Development from the CAEI

For EI development to be effective it needs to be:

- Individual-oriented – because each person's EI development needs are different
- Developmental – starting with an assessment and continuing with supported development
- About attitudes – developing emotionally intelligent attitudes and habits that lead to effective self and relationship management
- Over time – to sustain the changes in attitudes and habits over the long term
- Ethical – provided by qualified practitioners who have developed their own EI

For organisations: we either work with you to design and implement effective EI development programmes specific to your needs, or we run 'Train the Trainer' programmes to provide your organisation with people who have the necessary attitudes and skills to implement long-term EI strategies.

For individuals: we provide individual programmes for developing your personal EI, or practitioner courses if you are seeking to specialise in EI to help develop others.

How we can help you

PROGRAMME	CONTENT
3-day Introduction to EI	In-depth look at EI attitudes and skills, and personal assessment through the  with 1-2-1 feedback session
Minds4Success	Guided self development programme based around the  including comprehensive manual, with telephone/email coaching support and  standard accreditation	3-day exploration of the  and  profiling tools leading to accreditation developmental accreditation	Incorporating 3-day Introduction to EI (see above, either option), 4-month guided self development based on the Minds4Success programme (see above), 2 days of  training and accreditation
Certificate in Applied Emotional Intelligence (EI Practitioner programme)	A 9-month certificated action learning programme of 3 modules. Explores personal EI development, application of EI in teams, leadership and organisations. Entry requirement for AppliedEI™ Practitioner status
AppliedEI™ in Leadership	Bespoke programme designed to meet the specific EI needs of your in-house leadership programme
AppliedEI™ in Teams	Individual team developments designed to meet specific needs. Often starting with team culture diagnosis with the  , followed by experiential development, and possible individual assessment through the
EI awareness seminars and keynotes	Half and one day awareness workshops for organisations, as well as keynotes, plenary and workshops for conferences
EI consultancy	Help in implementing EI-based programmes to your specific needs

For further information visit: www.emotionalintelligence.co.uk